I started this business as an extra income/hobby. Just something I enjoy doing and make a little extra money during the pandemic. What started as something small turned into a full time job for a while. We do everything from a clogged drain to complete remodels. I contract work from property management companies. Usually they only have maybe one or two maintenance people. So when there workload gets overwhelming they will call me and i will go in and do basically anything they need. Ive worked residential and commercial. From putting a floor in. To drywall install and finish. Plumbing. Electrical. Basic electrical. Roofing. Anything that can be broken. I've probably fixed it or installed it. Demo also when needed

Project Management Coordinator

Indiana Flooring Carpet One-Anderson, IN

March 2019 to February 2025

Our hr department needed a position filled. I was a foreman at the time. Since i was familiar with the position considering my wife had previously worked that department. So i volunteered to fill the spot. And it kind of co-existed with my project manager role. And since i had been a hands on foreman i had a very good relationship with all the employees/ management/ and ownership. All the time i was in this position we had no major issues. And at the same time i would coordinate between the office and vendors. And customers and the office. Ive always been a people's person. So i felt like my role was a perfect fit for my personality
